WEATHER.

Fair Tonight; Tuesday Rising Temperature.

THOSE THREE BOYS.

Several of our friends have responded to The News' appeal for help in clothing three little boys so that they may be able to attend school. Help came before the ink was dry on Saturday's paper. But we have heard of others as the result of that appeal. You who are comfortable this wintry weather, remember the less fortunate. Your small contribution will not be missed by you, but it will do a world of good for the unfortunate.

Winchester, this rich city of comfortable homes and prosperous business men, should not allow a single sufferer within its limits. Send in a little help or telephone that you want to do your mite and we will attend to the rest. New phone 91.

WORST OF COLD WEATHER PAST

Temperature is Slowly Moderating—Gas Pressure is Very Low.

The backbone of the cold snap seems to be broken. Warmer weather is promised for Monday night and Tuesday. A continually rising temperature is promised by the weather bureau.

As cold as it has been Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the thermometer never reached zero. Monday morning the lowest reported was 4 above.

The weather of Sunday and Monday was far more agreeable than Saturday. There was hardly any wind either days. The natural gas supply was exceedingly low. Many complaints were made of an inability to heat the stores and houses. In an interview in Lexington, Mr. Rees, of the gas company gave on the following statement:

"Word has been received here from the gas fields that all six of the high pressure pumps are working constantly furnishing as direct to this city, but the fault with the plant is that two of the four low pressure pumps, which furnish gas to the high pressure pumps are not working."

"These have not been working for some little time, but previous to this cold wave these two pumps have been sufficient to furnish gas for the city's consumption. When the cold snap came, the demand on the mains was more than the two low pressure pumps could possibly furnish and consequently the supply was soon exhausted."

Expert Now on the Ground.

"There is an expert now on the ground at the pumping station and he is doing everything that he can to get the two low pressure pumps that are not now working, back into service as soon as possible. If the present cold weather lasts, we will be able to handle the situation within a few days and if it does not, we will be all right anyhow. There will be no difficulty experienced after this week, as I think that this will be sufficient time to get these two pumps in working order."

The street car has been out of commission since Friday. Much complaint has been made as it is felt that the tracks could easily have been cleared before this.

WORK IS SUSPENDED.

On K. of P. and F. and A. M. Building On Account of the Weather.

Work on the K. of P. and F. and A. M. fraternity building has been suspended for a while on account of the weather. The building is expected to be completed about the last of March or the first of April.

NATURAL GAS.

Natural gas is all right except when you need it mighty bad. In pleasant weather, it heats beautifully; but in the cold weather of the last few days it is a miserable failure. In Lexington, the users of gas suffered more than they did in Winchester. We have heard the gas company promising for the last few years that things would be better; but they never improve when the cold snap comes.

HEAVY SNOW TO PROVE BENEFIT

Growing Grain Helped and Fruit Not Injured as Was at First Feared.

With every prospect for a splendid year for crops as a result of the timely coming of the heavy snow, the farmers of Clark county are jubilant. From all sections of the country come reports that the outlook could not be better and that the outlook for a bumper crop is good.

The pleasant weather, almost like April, which immediately preceded the severe weather of the past few days, was fast bringing the trees, fruit and shade forward to the budding stage and had not the cold snap come just at this time, but a little later, the damage would have been irreparable.

Fruit Has Not Been Injured.

As it is the fruit has not been hurt at all, according to the best information obtainable, but to the contrary, the general health of the trees has been materially aided. In some sections it was thought that possibly the peaches were slightly damaged, but an examination of the trees indicates the contrary.

The snow which accompanied the cold spell has been of great benefit to the growing wheat. The ground beneath is not frozen and the covering of snow is of great protection to the young shoots. The snow when it melts will give the necessary moisture to start the wheat growing nicely.

Farmers Harvest Ice Today.

It is expected that nearly every farmer in the county will be out bright and early this morning, cutting and hauling the winter's supply of ice. The ponds everywhere are frozen. The ice is thick, but is not of a very good quality. There is too much snow in it, but the farmers generally will harvest a supply to fill their ice houses, not being willing to take a chance for better ice later on.

The last week has been one of ideal weather for the hemp breakers and the farmers who grew the crop this year generally took advantage of the open weather to get a great deal of this work done and out of the way. The hemp fields were full of men all during the time of pleasant weather. The snow has stopped the work in the fields for the time being, however, and until it goes away there will be no more breaking.

Best Winter For Years.

The general opinion among the farmers is that the present winter is one of the best if not the best for the growing crops that has been experienced in the county during the past thirty years. Up to a recent date the weather has been remarkably open and mild, allowing farmers the opportunity of doing a great deal of their spring work. Everywhere most of the farmers have finished their plowing which usually is done during March and April. They are now about ready for spring planting when the weather breaks for such work.

The large majority are sanguine of one of the greatest crop years that has ever been experienced in the history of the State. The only thing that can now retard farm work is an excess of rain during the spring months between now and April, which would throw the farmers behind in their planting as it did last spring.

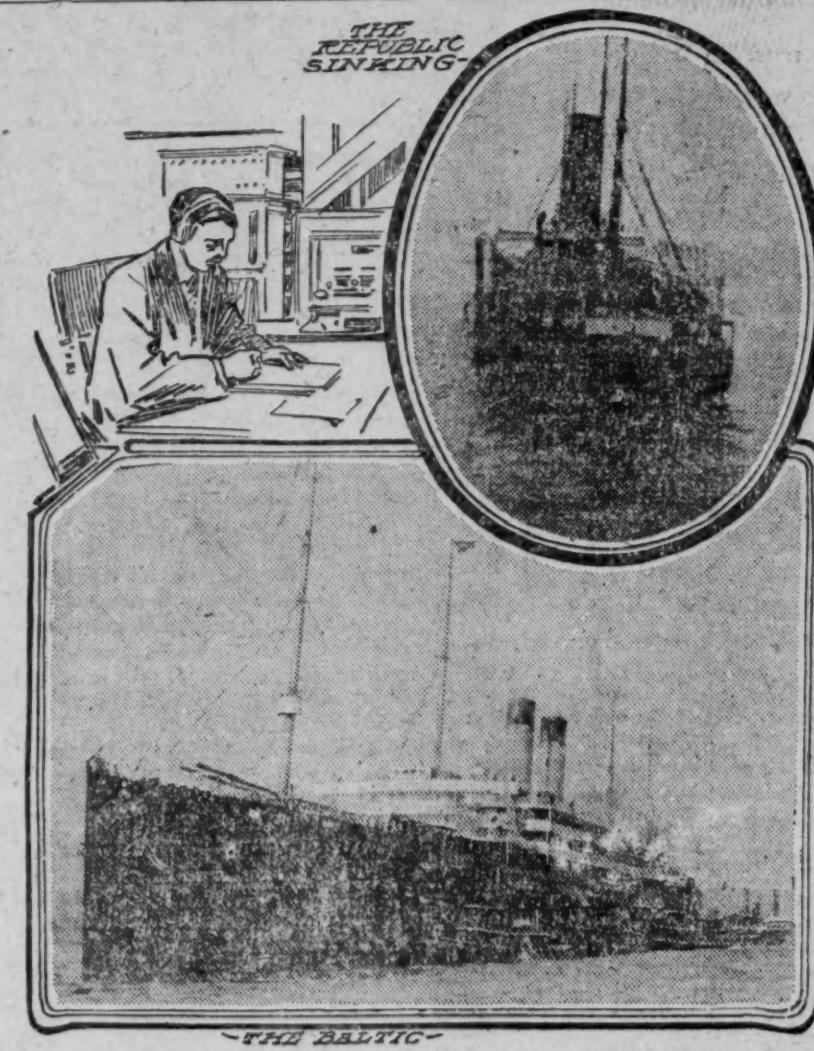

TOBACCO CONSUMERS LOOKING TO KENTUCKY

Department of Agriculture Shows Why Quality in State is Better.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Tobacco consumers over a great part of the world will continue to look, as they have some time past, to Kentucky and the bordering States for their supply of the fragrant weed, according to a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture on the cultivation of tobacco in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Kentucky and the bordering States produce annually 376,647,000 pounds of tobacco, more than one-half the production in the United States, and one-sixth of the entire world's production.

This tobacco in quality is peculiarly confined on account of soil and climatic conditions, to the area named.

WHITE STAR LINERS THAT FIGURED IN SEA DISASTER AND RESCUES.

This picture shows the White Star liner Baltic steaming into New York with the passengers of the Republic and the Florida, which were in collision off Nantucket. The picture of the Republic was taken by a passenger on board the Florida while that ship was standing by the Republic and while the last named vessel was sinking. Captain Sealby and the mate of the Republic stayed on board the ship until she sank.

HELP THE POOR BY GOING TO AUDITORIUM TUESDAY NIGHT

Messrs Scobee Have Donated All Proceeds To The King's Daughters.

Girls Basket Ball Teams Will Play Good Game.

On Tuesday night the Auditorium Skating Rink will be turned over to the King's Daughters and the entire proceeds of the ticket sales will be given to them to be used for the benefit of poor and helpless that are suffering from the extreme cold weather in Winchester.

All complimentaries of every kind will be cancelled on that night and every one who attends will be expected to pay the admission price which will be ten cents.

The employees of the rink have agreed to furnish their services for this good cause free of any charge and they will, like everyone else, pay the admission price to get in.

It is said that there is less suffering among the poor in Winchester this year than there has been in some time but there have still been very many pathetic cases among the poor where they have suffered extremely from the recent cold spell and need relief and need it badly. It is up to the people of Winchester to respond to this call and help relieve these conditions.

Few of the people of our town who are in comfortable circumstances, when they go home at night to a warm fire, plenty to eat and a warm place to sleep, ever think of the poor and suffering who may not be two blocks away from them. While the suffering among the poor in Winchester may not be as many in number as they are in other cities or as large as they have been here in other years, they are equally as distressing.

In nearly all the other cities, there has been a great deal of charity work done in the past few days since the severe cold spell struck the country, but this is one of the first steps to be taken in Winchester to relieve her suffering poor and the people should not be slow to respond to this generous offer made by the Messrs. Scobee, proprietors of the rink. They should come out and enjoy the evening and at the same time help a good cause. If you can't come, send your admission price. It will help out some.

Remember the King's Daughters help all who need it regardless of church affiliations or nationality, and when you contribute it will not be all given to any one church or nationality.

Girls' basket ball teams have agreed to play a game of basket ball to help entertain those who attend.

R. R. PERRY LEAVES FOR N. E. A. MEETING

Will Be in Session at Kansas City Tuesday and Wednesday of This Week.

Mr. R. R. Perry left Sunday to attend the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Editorial Association of which he is a member. The session convenes at Kansas City, February 2.

There will also be a side trip of the committee to Topeka. The committee will leave Kansas City February 2 at 10 a. m., and will return to Kansas City Wednesday morning. A banquet will be given the committee Tuesday night.

Wednesday morning will be the executive meeting of the committee. At the completion of this meeting, the association will be the guests of the Commercial Club of Kansas City.

Among other things to be considered will be the meeting place of the organization this year which is expected to be Seattle.

EDITOR FALLS UNDER TRAIN

W. L. Woodson of American Press Injured—Right Foot is Amputated.

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 1.—While attempting to board a train at the Glenwood station of the New York Central, William L. Woodson, editor of the American Press, fell and was injured by the moving wheels. His right foot was amputated at the station and at St. John's Riverside hospital, to which he was taken, it was found that amputation of the leg below the knee was necessary.

He was badly injured about the head and sustained other injuries, but displayed wonderful fortitude, which the physicians say will materially assist him in recovering from the shock of the accident.

Mr. Woodson's paper, the American Press, is issued from the main office of the American Press Association in New York. He has been connected with the association for many years, coming to the main office from the Atlanta branch, of which he was manager.

Mr. Woodson was formerly one of the best known newspaper men in the south. He is a native of Virginia, but lived also in Georgia and other southern states.

Strawberry Crop Ruined. Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 1.—With the thermometer hovering around 15 degrees above zero, previous records were broken in Atlanta and reports received here indicate that the cold snap was general throughout Georgia, Alabama and Florida. The lowest temperature recorded in Atlanta was 10 above. While the orchardists believe the cold weather will be of inestimable benefit to the peach crop of Georgia, reports indicate that strawberries and vegetables have been practically ruined as far south as the northern part of Florida.

COLD CONTINUES TODAY

Lower Lake Region Will Witness Higher Temperature Tomorrow.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The cold wave continues to hold that part of the country east of the Mississippi within its grasp, and although low temperatures occurred, freezing temperatures were recorded as far south as central Florida, fair weather conditions have prevailed generally. Warmer conditions are reported west of the Mississippi.

Cold weather will continue today in the Atlantic states and lower lake region, followed by rising temperature Tuesday.

In the central valleys, the upper lake region and the gulf states temperatures will rise, while over the western half of the country they will change but little.

Steamer Weems Is Safe.

Baltimore, Feb. 1.—All fear that the steamer reported from Elizabeth City, N. C., as having foundered on Diamond shoals might be the Theodore Weems of the Baltimore and Carolina Steamship company, was dispelled when the Weems was reported passing in the capes.

BROWN TAKES CHARGE

Change in New York Central Management Effective Today.

New York, Feb. 1.—With the opening of business today at the offices of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad the system has a new head. William H. Newman, the outgoing president, retires to make place for William C. Brown, who was elected president of the road on Jan. 6.

The promotion of Mr. Brown will make no change in the personnel of the vice presidents of the road immediately. Mr. Newman will continue as a member of the board. Mr. Brown was formerly senior vice president of the road.

Physician Found Dead. Chicago, Feb. 1.—Dr. R. H. Holroyde, a physician of Lincoln, Neb., was found dead in his room at the Windsor-Clifton hotel. His death is believed to have been caused by poisoning, and the police are investigating the theory that he accidentally took an overdose of medicine.

NO ONE ESCAPED

Natives Describe Avalanche Which Destroyed Moroccan Village.

Centa, Morocco, Feb. 1.—Native accounts of the avalanche which occurred at Romara say it came during the night and was preceded by loud subterranean noises, which threw the inhabitants into panic. A sudden and terrible shock occurred and huge rocks swept down, completely burying the village. None of the several hundred inhabitants had time to escape.

BANISH TYPHOID FROM THE ARMY

Wholesale Vaccination Will Be Undertaken—Not to Be Compulsory.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Immunization against typhoid in army camps by vaccination is to be undertaken by the military authorities. The whole matter is to be frankly put before the army, and individuals are to be invited to volunteer for vaccination. No soldier or officer will be compelled to submit to anti-typhoid vaccination against his will, but an effort will be made by lectures and examples to show the soldiers the advantage of availing themselves of such a simple and easy way of escaping one of the worst and most dreaded of army camp diseases.

These measures are to be taken as a result of the recommendations of the board of eminent physicians appointed to consider measures for preventing typhoid fever in army camps. It was named at the instance of Brigadier General Robert M. O'Reilly, then surgeon general of the army, and included in its membership were Drs. Victor C. Vaughan of Ann Arbor, William T. Councilman of Boston, John H. Musser of Philadelphia, Alexander Lamb of New York, Simon Flexner of New York and William S. Thayer of Baltimore.

A summary of the board's conclusions was made public. This points out the well known fact that both during the civil and the Spanish-American wars typhoid fever prevailed to a great extent among the troops, especially among the younger men in regiments recently recruited. Old soldiers were not often affected, and as regiments learned how to take care of themselves the disease tended to diminish.

It has long been recognized, says the report, that a person who has once had typhoid is practically insured against a second attack, and the medical profession has now found in anti-typhoid vaccination a simple and harmless way of artificially inducing almost the same amount of protection. It is a very simple, clean and harmless method, and a mere trifling compared to the danger to life or the long illness and expense of an attack of the fever. In the last few years 15,000 men have been treated in this way with excellent effect, and without a single untoward result.

LANGLEY INTRODUCES BILL

House Today Gets Measure to Prevent Interstate Liquor Shipments.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Representative Langley of Kentucky today introduced the interstate liquor shipment bill prepared by the Anti-Saloon League of America to obviate the objection of unconstitutionality urged against the Littlefield bill.

The objection to the Littlefield bill was that it made interstate shipments of liquor subject to state laws immediately upon crossing the boundary, which was claimed by its opponents to be an attempted delegation of congressional power, and therefore unconstitutional.

The new measure provides for direct exercise of congressional power by itself prohibiting the shipment or transportation of liquor to any state, territory or district of the United States, or part of the same, where such shipment could not legally be made within the same. It is designed to protect both prohibition states and dry territory within local option states.

GAP IS FILLED

Cleveland and Cincinnati to Be Connected by Trolley This Week.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 1.—By the completion this week of a trolley line between Seville and Ashland, O., a gap is closed which makes possible continuous trolley travel between Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. By Feb. 10 there will be inaugurated through limited service between Cleveland and Mansfield, making direct trolley connections with Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. Later in the year, through limited service between Cleveland and Columbus will be established.

Establishes New Record. New York, Feb. 1.—Claire S. Jacobs of the University of Chicago established a new world's indoor pole-vault record of 11 feet 8 3/8 inches, at the fifteenth annual handicap track meet given by the First Regiment Athletic association.

BOOM FOR BOWLING:

Greatest Season In History of Game Now In Progress.

TWO BIG TOURNAMENTS COMING.

Pittsburg Busy Preparing For American Bowling Congress Tournament Feb. 20 to March 20—National Association in New York May 4.

This season the game of tenpins has come to be recognized as the national winter pastime. Ten years ago a statement of this kind would have been received with a smile of incredulity. Today the enthusiastic tenpin artists can bowl a game of tenpins in any city from Boston to San Francisco and from Montreal to the City of Mexico. No other athletic sport, with the possible exception of baseball, has shown anything like an equal growth or has so much capital invested in its promotion.

Probably every business, trade and profession and the majority of fraternal orders are represented in five man teams at our different state and national tournaments. The newspapers themselves have learned that the vast majority of their readers demand of them the bowling news of the country.

Beyond these facts there is a more important feature which is being rap-

ODD EPITAPHS.

The Tombstone Inscription Willed by an Ardent Republican.

At Attica in the little burying ground is the grave of Nathaniel Grigsby. He died in 1890 and was a man of much force. He had a war record, serving as second Lieutenant in Company G. Tenth Indiana cavalry. Grigsby was an ardent Republican. He stood by the G. O. P. at all times and even in death. This epitaph is on his tombstone:

Through this inscription I wish to enter my dying protest against what is called the Democratic party. I have watched it closely since the days of Jackson and know that all the misfortunes of our nation have come to it through this so called party. Therefore beware of this party of treason.

Grigsby's heirs did not want this inscription to go on the tombstone, but the lawyer declared that it will provided that it must be used, and the family had to agree. But the inscription is headed with a line that Grigsby's will made the epitaph mandatory.

At Lincoln is a very odd tombstone. A travelling man of that town, who had been on the road many years and was quite eccentric, framed an epitaph that is decidedly original. He died several years ago, and traveling bag hewn out of marble stands at the head of his grave. On one side of the bag is this line:

"Here is where Bill stopped last!"—Kansas City Journal.

A VISION ON THE VELDT.

The Form on the Rocks That Confronted the Soldier.

I thought I saw a form of some kind between the bowlders. I jumped to the conclusion that it was a soldier. In one second it had vanished. I challenged, but got no answer. Those pieces of rock seemed to terrify me.

I advanced toward them, but saw nothing. I retired back and took up my position, leaning on my rifle. My eyes went again to the same place, and there, standing between the two bowlders, was the outline of a woman. I brought my rifle to the present, covering the form which stood before me. I saw her walk from one piece of rock to the other.

I watched and saw her repeat her action. She then stopped and leaned up against one of the bowlders with her back toward me. I again advanced to where she stood. When I had got to within forty or fifty yards of her I saw her turn round and look straight at me with a careworn and sorrowful face.

Then I saw and knew who she was. It was my own mother. I was not mistaken, for she walked within a few yards of me, at the same time looking me dead in the face. She then turned about and walked to the two pieces of rock, and I saw no more of her. About three weeks after I received a letter from home telling me of her death and burial—"A Grenadier's South African Reminiscence" in Occult Review.

Gambling For Maids.

"Many queer reasons are advanced by servant girls for losing their place," said the manager of the employment bureau, "but the queerest I have ever heard was given by a girl who blew in here last week. Her late mistress was a bridge fand. One day for the want of money to bet she and her friends played with their maids for stakes. At the end of the game each woman considered herself in honor bound to stick to her agreement, and an attempt was really made to swap servants according to the ups and downs of the game. Some of the girls thus rallied off changed places willingly enough, but that client of mine refused to be swapped and hustled around hunting a new job."—New York Sun.

Two great buildings have been secured for the two recognized national tournaments—namely, the Madison Square Garden, New York, which tournament starts on May 4, is to be fitted out with twenty-four bowling alleys, which are to be installed for the exclusive purpose of holding its national tournament; in the middle west the American bowling congress will hold its tournament in the Duquesne Gardens at Pittsburg, beginning Feb. 20 and ending March 20, on sixteen alleys.

Meetings have been planned and a national organization is being discussed with a national commission which will roll the game of tenpins similar to the present national baseball committee. It is due principally to the American bowling congress in the west and the National Bowling association in the east that the games of tenpins has been unimpeded in its forward march.

The "Olympic Marathon $50,000 Derby of the bowling world" is the tournaments title given to the next annual tournament of the National Bowling association.

The event is to be held under the auspices of the United Tournament company at Madison Square Garden, New York, and will run for three weeks, starting on May 4. Twenty-four alleys are to be installed with all the latest devices, including an aerial scoring system, by the aid of which the work of each player can be followed by the spectators.

"Fellow," said the judge in a stern tone, "how came you to neglect making the gibbet that was ordered on my account?"

"I humbly beg your pardon," replied the carpenter. "Had I known it was for your lordship it would have been done immediately."

The Wave of Indulgence.

Indulgence nowadays is very much exaggerated. We have even come to admire clever thieves, and as long as we are not the victims of the theft we are quite enthusiastic for the rogue who shows great cunning and daring in his crimes. He is almost a hero in our eyes, and we call him a genius.—Paris Figaro.

He Discovered Why.

Mr. Oldboy—Why do you bring so much water, Tommy? I merely asked for a drink.

Mostly Down.

Brown (expatiating on the merits of his latest bargain in motors)—I don't say she's much to look at, but you should see the way she takes a hill! Friend (callously)—Up or down?—London Punch.

Nature never did betray the heart that loved her.—Barrow.

the question. Then at the top, and at the bottom also, is placed quilled ribbon, chiffon or net matching the pelt. The neckband hooks in the back under a huge bow of ribbon. Very attractive, too, are the collars of black chiffon edged at the top with a line of ostrich feather banding.

One could keep on writing endlessly about the neckwear, but I really must tell you about a collar of ermine made by a clever girl who has more brains than money. This young lady had an ermine muff that had survived her infantile days in a good state of preservation. This pelt she determined to make into one of the new neckbands. With this end in view she cut a paper pattern of a collar whose shape was similar to that of the old storm affair that stood up high and close in the back and sloped down in front. This modern collar, though, crossed in front in tiny laps like the velvet ribbon one wears at one's neck. The pattern was laid on the skin side of the ermine and cut with a sharp razor, allowing for a slight turning in. Edging the collar all around was an inch wide quilling of black satin ribbon, and at the top, extending a little beyond the black, peeped a quilting of gold tissue and above that a quilling of creamy lace. The effect was charming and French to a degree, and all for the price of the trimming and a little white satin used for the lining. Doesn't this idea suggest possibilities of other neckbands to you?

I reckon it wouldn't be up to date for a fashion scribe not to mention something "in the directoire style." But who said the directoire gown was new? It's about three centuries old, and these figures are conservative. It recently came to light that Parisian women borrowed the sheath gown idea from Burma, where it has been the national costume for centuries. One hears, too, that in the orient, as in America, the sheath skirt, opening at the side, is losing favor and the closed jupe is coming into popularity. In fact, the directoire gown is being brought down to the simplicity of the tailored frock.

At a matinee last Saturday a young society matron was wearing with her mauve crepe de chine gown a directoire coat of black satin lined with violet ottoman silk. The coat was up at the sides, and one caught fascinating glimpses of the colored lining. The same shade of mauve was repeated in the feathers of the large black silk hat. This repetition of color in coat lining and hat is one of the new ideas of the season.

or a fern is seen in the illustration. The basket is colored a dull bronze green. A well grown maidenhair fern of a very light green shade fitted in a basket of this description looks uncommonly well on a breakfast table and is so much more novel than the ordinary china flowerpot. The coloring of the basket being so artistic, care should always be taken to have nice fresh green moss daintily placed on the top of the basket. These trifles add so much to the general effect.

Tools For Sewing Room.

No one can accomplish good results in any kind of work if she has not the proper tools with which to work. If the sewing room is furnished neatly and comfortably twice the amount of work can be accomplished. One of the absolute necessities for every sewing room is a small kitchen table painted white. Into the drawer may be put scissors, chalk, tape measures and other small articles that are indispensable in the sewing room. This table can be used to lay the goods on while cutting out garments, and it will be found a great help when it comes to basting seams and hemms of skirts and other garments.

The sewing room should be furnished with a low chair for use when at the sewing machine, as a high chair is most uncomfortable, making one lean over and strain the back. A large mirror also is necessary, for when one is fitting one's own clothes this will be found most convenient. A great many steps will be saved if a roomy wastebasket, a dustpan and broom are also kept handy.

Care of the Hands.

This is the time of year to commence taking care of the hands to make them less susceptible to chapping, etc. Each night before retiring rub into the hands some cold cream (lard will do as well) to remove all the grime that may have accumulated during the day. Remove the cream that has not been absorbed by the pores and wash thoroughly with plenty of soap and water. Then rub into the hands all the glycerin and rosewater they will absorb. This treatment should be continued daily for some time, and they will always be soft, clean and white.

DIRECTORY.

Kentucky.

According to the last census Kentucky has a population of 2,147,174.

The Area is 40,400 square miles; 400 of which is water. It has river border lines on the East, North and West. The streams within the State, as a rule, head in the South East and flow in a North Westerly direction; this fact retarded the construction of railroads and the development of our resources for many years.

The early railroads were built from the East and went over the more level territories North of the Ohio river and South of the Cumberland and Mountains. In those days there was only a limited demand for coal and lumber. Now that the demand has increased, railroads have been built and others are contemplated that will develop on resources. It would seem that kind Providence has held in reserve almost inexhaustible utilities until a time when they are most needed by the country. Our supply of timber is limited, but there is enough to last for many years to come.

We have a coal area of over fifteen thousand square miles enough to supply the world. Other minerals await development.

Natural gas and oil, in paying quantities are being developed in many localities.

There are no more bad people in Kentucky than in other states in proportion to population. Good people, regardless of politics or religion, are always welcome.

Clark County.

Land acres, 158,176. Land assessment, $5,452,120. Value of real and personal property including franchises, $10,940,898.

Tax rate for all county purposes, on the hundred dollars.

The foot hills of the mountains are on the Eastern border of the county, the Kentucky river on the South, forms the county line for a distance of twenty-five miles. Ford on the river, South of Winchester, has extensive lumber mills.

Three railroads go entirely across the county; Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and Lexington & Eastern.

Blue Grass is a natural product. Uncultivated land will set itself in Blue grass. Crops of timothy and clover can be raised with profit. Corn, wheat, rye and oats are the grain crops. Tobacco is raised in large quantities.

All fruits that are adapted to the climate can be raised with profit.

The census of 1900 gave the population at 16,694.

County seat, area, a circle one and a half miles in diameter. Population census 1900, 5,964. The city has overstepped the corporate limits and now has a population that should be included in the limits of eight thousand. It is located on the dividing ridge between the Kentucky and Licking rivers, has water works, electric street cars and lights. Unlimited natural gas. Splendid graded schools and numerous churches.

The Kentucky Wesleyan College is located at Winchester. The fire department is one of the best in the State.

The assessed valuation of all property, including franchises, approximates three million dollars. The tax rate on the hundred dollars is sixty cents for city and forty cents for schools.

The C. & O., L. & N., and L. & E. railroads center at Winchester the geographical location and shipping facilities make the city a desirable location for factories. New concerns are given five years exemption from taxation. The Commercial Club will take pleasure in giving information.

Napoleon's Bible.

An Italian journalist has the copy of the Bible which Napoleon used during his compulsory sojourn in the Isle of Elba. It is a copy of a cheap popular edition, illustrated with rough wood cuts, with the initial N. and the imperial crown stamped upon its back. A number of texts are underlined, and the inference is that the exiled emperor searched the Scriptures for passages appropriate to his misfortune and his hopes. "I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered," is perhaps the most significant of them. The Bible was discovered in the sanctuary

FINDING HIS INITIAL.

A Tangle of Letters That Was Finally Made O. K.

The man with a soft, low voice had just completed his purchases.

"What is the name?" asked the clerk.

"Jepson," replied the man.

"Jefferson?"

"No, Jepson; J-e-p-s-o-n."

"Jepson?"

"That's it. Eighty-two"—

"Your first name—initial, please."

"Oh, K."

"O. K. Jepson?"

"Excuse me, it isn't O. K. I said 'Oh.'"

"O. Jepson?"

"No, rub out the O. and let the K. stand."

The assistant looked annoyed.

"Will you please give me your initials again?"

"I said K."

"I beg your pardon, you said O. K. Perhaps you had better write it yourself."

"I said 'Oh'—"

"Just now you said K."

"Allow me to finish what I started to say. I said 'O' because I did not understand what you were asking me. I did not mean that it was my initial. My name is Kirby Jepson."

"Oh!"

"No, not O, but K," said the man. "Give me the pencil and I'll write it down for you myself. There; it's O. K. now!"

THE HAUGHTY TURK.

High Handed Diplomatic Methods of the Seventeenth Century.

Indignities to which foreign envoys were formerly subjected in China were mild in comparison with those occasionally meted out to them in Constantinople. M. Julian Klaczek in his "Etude de Diplomatic Contemporaine" relates that in 1673 the grand vizier, having intercepted some French dispatches, tried to force Del la Haye, first secretary to the French embassy and son of the ambassador, to give him the cipher of the embassy. The young diplomat indignantly refused and was in consequence bastinadoed, struck in the face with such force that his teeth were broken, and he was thrown into prison. No attempt was made by Louis XIV. to obtain redress for the wrongs inflicted on his representative.

Until the beginning of the eighteenth century Christian envoys to the porte were forbidden to visit one another or even to confer with one another on neutral ground. They were not allowed to drive in public with their wives, and at one time it was proposed to prevent them from importing wine for their own consumption. A compromise was effected on this point, on the understanding that the accursed liquor was to be conveyed from the harbor to the embassies at night and in great secrecy.

The Order of the Seraphim.

The Order of the Seraphim is the oldest and most famous of the decorations in the gift of the king of Sweden. Originally it was instituted by Magnus IV., some 600 years ago, to commemorate the siege of Upsala, the ancient capital of the Swedish kings, and its statutes bound the recipients of the order to fight to the death for the maintenance of their religion and to constitute themselves the special protectors of the widow and the fatherless. When it was revived about the middle of the eighteenth century by King Frederick the obligations laid upon the members were somewhat less onerous. The decoration consists of an eight pointed star in white enamel with cherubs' heads of gold and is worn on a broad band of pale blue ribbon.—Boston Transcript.

Without Horns.

A clergyman was an important witness in a horse dealing case. He gave a somewhat confused account of the transaction in dispute, and the cross examining counsel, after making several blustering but ineffective attempts to obtain a more satisfactory statement, said:

"Pray, sir, do you know the difference between a horse and a cow?"

"I acknowledge my ignorance," replied the reverend gentleman. "I hardly know the difference between a horse and a cow or between a bull and a billy—only a bull, I am told, has horns, and a billy"—here he made a respectful bow to the advocate—"luckily for me, has none."

Beans, Spanish Style.

Soak overnight two cupfuls of white or pink beans. In the morning boil with a pinch of soda fifteen minutes and drain. Fry one large sliced onion with a piece of pork or bacon. Add these to the beans; also a cup of canned tomatoes, two shredded chili peppers, salt and sufficient hot water to cover well. Boil briskly for ten minutes on the stove before putting in the cooker. Leave in for five hours. —Good Housekeeping.

Dental Incubation.

"Tommy," said the visiting uncle, "seems to me that baby sister of yours is pretty slow. She hasn't any teeth yet, has she?"

"She's got plenty of teeth," replied the indignant Tommy. "She's got a whole mouthful of teeth, only they ain't hatched yet!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Barefaced.

"Freddie," said the visitor, "I hear your father gave you a watch on your birthday. Was it a hunting case watch?"

"No, ma'am," replied Freddie. "It was a barefaced watch."—Exchange.

"TOO MUCH POLITICS."

We commend to some of the Democratic politicians who are finding fault with the position of The News on city politics an editorial, under the above title in Saturday's issue of the Lexington Herald, the leading Democratic paper of the Blue Grass. The editorial is particularly timely when it is remembered that Lexington is the only second-class city in the State with a Democratic administration and that the Herald supported that ticket and still supports the administration. The part to which we particularly invite the attention of our political friends is as follows:

"We do have too much politics in Lexington and the editor of The Leader is not the only one who is responsible for that condition. Politicians enter too largely into too many relations of life and it would be better for the community if it were eliminated except during election times. Theoretically there ought not to be any "politics" in the sense of national or State politics in the government of a city. Whether a man believes in a high protective tariff or in free trade; whether he is in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver or believes in the gold standard; whether he believes in the retention of the Philippines and the acquisition of Cuba, or that a sea level would be better than a lock and dam canal across the Isthmus of Panama, does not in the least affect his capacity to be Mayor, auditor, policeman or fireman.

We ourselves would like to see, and have earnestly advocated, the complete elimination of the police and fire departments from all political connection. The time is coming when these departments will be under Civil Service rule and a man's political affiliations will have nothing to do with his appointment to a position under the city government or his retention in an office.

In fact the time is coming in the not distant future when what is known as "the Galveston system" will be adopted by a majority of the cities of America, practically eliminating political divisions in the government of cities. When any man of real force, of high purpose, of lofty courage, of rugged honesty, with disinterested desire to serve the public, with the capacity of leadership, becomes sufficiently interested in the affairs of Lexington, to lead such a movement it will be brought about here.

It will come more rapidly if our friends in control of the city government do not avail themselves to the uttermost limit of the disinterested desire of citizens, both men and women, to serve the city in matters connected with the schools and charities, the parks and the play grounds, which are essentially apart from political questions and ought to be kept absolutely separate and distinct. When this ideal condition is attained it will be inevitable that Republicans and Democrats, Populists and Prohibitionists, will be called upon to serve in those positions in which they can render the best service."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Mrs. Joe S. Lindsay.

Mrs. Joe S. Lindsay died at her home on the Mt. Sterling pike at an early hour Monday morning, after an illness of two months of blood poisoning. Her death, while not wholly unexpected, comes as a great shock to her many friends and relatives in this county and wherever she was known. Mrs. Lindsay had been in declining health for sometime but had only been seriously ill about two weeks. She is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Hunt, and her husband, Mr. Joe S. Lindsay; two children, Lou Barrow, aged three years, and Elizabeth Hunt, aged one month; and one sister, Mrs. John Duvall.

The hearts of all are filled with infinite sadness at the passing away of this sweet young woman. Our community held no lovelier character; no more faithful, loving wife and daughter; no more tender, conscientious mother than Mrs. Lindsay.

To those around whose lives her death has cast so impenetrable a gloom, we extend our sincerest sympathy, though we are fully conscious that time alone can alleviate in any measure this mighty sorrow.

The funeral of Mrs. Joe Lindsay will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Cemetery. Services conducted by Elder J. W. Harding and Rev. J. W. Porter.

Miss Deborah Coyle.

Miss Deborah Coyle, of Mt. Sterling, who is well-known in Winchester, where she worked for some time, died Sunday at 1 p.m., at the Union Depot in Louisville as she was being brought home from Texas. Some five or six weeks ago, Miss Coyle who was suffering from consumption, was taken to Texas in the hope that the mild climate would do her good. But she failed to rally and was returning home to Mt. Sterling to die when she was overtaken in Louisville.

FOR MERCHANT MARINE

National League Will Hold Series of Meetings In Church.

New York, Feb. 1.—The first of five meetings to be devoted to the advancement of the interests of the American merchant marine will be held tonight in the Metropolitan temple, this city, of which the Rev. John Wesley Hill is pastor. The meetings are to be held under the auspices of the National Merchant Marine league.

Letters from President Roosevelt and President-elect Taft commanding the purpose of the meetings, which is the stimulation of public interest in the growth of the merchant marine, will be read. Among the prominent men who will take part in the conferences are the Hon. James E. McCleary, representative from Minnesota; John Barrett, director of the bureau of American republics; Henry Clews, Leslie M. Shaw, John J. McCook and Myron T. Herrick. One purpose of the conferences is the advocacy of legislation compelling the carrying of American mail to Europe and elsewhere in American ships. The members of the league generally favor the ship subsidy plan.

The pastor of the temple is in favor of the mixture of politics and economics with religion, with a view to the uplifting of the former. With that end in view he has invited the promoters of meetings of public interest to hold them in the temple.

Grand Vizier Calls Bulgaria.

Constantinople, Feb. 1.—The grand vizier, Kiamil Pasha, dispatched to Sofia an energetic note demanding to know definitely whether Bulgaria intends to resume negotiations.

PLACE A LIMIT ON
DEDICATION CROWD

Bad Roads Make Change In Lincoln Memorial Program.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 1.—Only the number of people who can be crowded into a great tent will be permitted to witness, near Hodgenville, Ky., on the day of Feb. 12, the exercises commemorating the centenary of Abraham Lincoln's birth. Though President Theodore Roosevelt, Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Galloway, Ambassadors Jusserand and Bryce, Senator Dolliver, Former Governor Folk and other men of national importance are scheduled to make addresses, not by any means will all of those who wish to attend the dedication be able to be present.

In February roads leading from Hodgenville to the farm where Lincoln was born are not like the Appian Way, and the short period during which work has been done on the farm site has provided no shelter large enough to accommodate a throng. The Lincoln committee of Kentucky therefore, working with the committee of the Lincoln Farm association, has bought a tent to hold about 4,000 people, and in the center of this the address will be made and the cornerstone of the hall laid by the president.

Denies Attack on Jap.

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 1.—That the alleged attack upon K. Kaneko, a Japanese student at the University of California, on the university campus, turns out to have been a very trivial affair, and one in which the students of the university were not concerned, was the statement made by President Benjamin Ide Wheeler after an investigation of the matter.

DOGS CONTEST TODAY

Texas Ranches Scenes of Exciting Field Trials.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 1.—Four days of this week, beginning today, will be filled with interest for sportsmen of this city and the surrounding country by the field trials of hunting dogs, an open air sport that has taken firm hold in recent years.

The open all-age Derby and champion stakes, in which the best dogs of the country are entered, began today the Nix and adjoining ranches. The trials are intended as tests for the best dogs at hunting quail, with which this territory abounds. Many of the animals that are competing are prize winners, and in the final series the racing and other tests will be sensational and thrilling.

Church Damaged by Fire.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—An overheated furnace caused a fire which destroyed the beautiful interior of the Fourth Presbyterian church, causing a loss of $10,000.

COACHES HARVARD'S PITCHERS

Mathewson Takes Charge of College Slab Artists Today.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 1.—Beginning today the pitching candidates of Harvard will have the benefit of the coaching of Christy Mathewson, the highest priced pitcher in the country.

Captain Currier of the college baseball team declares that his men are in good shape. He expects to improve on Harvard's poor record of last year, when the team finished behind Princeton, Yale and others.

Eight Sailors Drowned.
Skagen, Denmark, Feb. 1.—The Norwegian brig Steed was wrecked off Jutland and eight of her crew perished.

KILLS WOMAN BY ACCIDENT

Brother of Mayor Busse of Chicago Figures in Tragedy.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—George Busse, brother of Fred A. Busse, mayor of Chicago, accidentally shot and killed Mrs. L. C. Tuckerman, 32, of Milton, N. Y. The bullet struck Mrs. Tuckerman in the heart and she died instantly. The shooting occurred in the Walton apartment-building. Mrs. Tuckerman was visiting her father, Brigadier General A. C. Gerard, retired.

George Busse, in his apartment across an areaway, was demonstrating the use of a revolver to Miss Bertha Lambke, his housemaid, so that she could employ the weapon in case of burglars. Suddenly the revolver was discharged and the bullet went through two windows and, crossing the areaway into the Gerard apartment, pierced Mrs. Tuckerman's heart.

Mayor Busse was present at the shooting, and as soon as he learned of the fatal consequences notified the police.

KENTUCKY LEADS THE WORLD

With Bordering States Produce One-sixth of All Tobacco Raised.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Tobacco consumers over a great part of the world will continue to look as they have for some time past, to Kentucky and the bordering states for their supply of the fragrant weed, according to a bulletin issued by the department of agriculture on the cultivation of tobacco in Kentucky and Tennessee. Kentucky and the bordering states produce annually 376,647,000 pounds of tobacco, being more than one-half of the production of the United States and one-sixth of the entire world's production. This tobacco is of a quality peculiarly confined, on account of soil and climatic conditions, to the area named.

Countess De Lesseps Dies.

Paris, Feb. 1.—The Countess De Lesseps, widow of Count Ferdinand De Lesseps, the promoter of the ship canals of Suez, Corinth and Panama, died here.

LION KILLS CHILD
IN MOTHER'S SIGHTWoman Has Terrible Experience
In California Camp.

Balboa, Cal., Feb. 1.—Her two-year-old boy killed and his body terribly mangled by a monster mountain lion, and the fierce beast devouring one of his legs which it had torn from its socket, was the sight that Mrs. Chris Brown beheld when she entered the family tent, four miles from the Hotel Delmar, after a short walk.

When the mother realized what had taken place she screamed and almost threw herself on the lion, which growled savagely and backed slowly out of the rear of the tent, carrying a mouthful of flesh in its teeth, and disappeared. The Browns arrived from Delaware two weeks ago.

Magoon Is Well Pleased.

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 1.—Charles E. Magoon, former governor of Cuba, left here for Washington. Ex-Governor Magoon said that President Gomez had shown excellent judgment in selecting his cabinet, and he thought that the new government would have reasonably fair sailing.

ENGINEERS ARE SATISFIED

Report Gatun Dam Site All Right.

Panama, Feb. 1.—The engineers who accompanied President-elect Taft to the isthmus, and who have been examining the canal construction at Gatun with the chief engineer of the canal, Colonel Goethals, say they have no fault to find with the natural foundations for the dam, and they regarded the plans for safeguarding the dam as being complete. They will make a report to President Roosevelt, and it is understood will refute the criticisms that have been made with regard to the dam and its construction. They inspected Culebra cut today. It is understood the present canal plans will be approved thoroughly by the engineers in their report.

FLEET AT GIBRALTAR

First Division of American Battleships Enthusiastically Received.

Gibraltar, Feb. 1.—The first division of the United States Atlantic fleet, composed of the Connecticut, Vermont, Kansas and Minnesota, under command of Rear Admiral Sprey, arrived here from Villefranche. From the moment the glistening white hulls of the American ships were mere specks upon the blue water of the Mediterranean, every point of vantage on the rock of Gibraltar was occupied, and by the time they were ready to round majestically into the harbor the entire population seemed to be on the water front.

Philippine Assembly Opens Today.

Manila, Feb. 1.—The Philippine assembly opened today with simple ceremonies. President Osmena presiding. The first business to come before the body was the annual message to the assembly of Governor General James F. Smith.

The Winchester Opera House

Scene from "The Witching Hour."

With an uninterrupted series of successes to its credit in other cities, Augustus Thomas' record-breaking play "The Witching Hour" comes to the Winchester opera house on Thursday evening, February 4.

In no other play of recent years has so much novelty, realism and sustained interest been prevailed.

From the rise of the curtain in the first act to the final climax of the fourth act, the mystic, entralling Dunbar, Franklin Jones, George Howes, W. C. Bristow, S. Kent, W. P. Jackson and J. L. Wilson.

The sumptuous scenic environment which will be shown with "The Witching Hour" bears credit to the lavish provision made by the Shuberts for all of their attractions.

Miss Illa Stewart will be the attractive hostess for the Literary and Social Club on Saturday next.

Bridge Club.

Mrs. John Bean held the last meeting of the Bridge Club with her on Saturday afternoon. Notwithstanding the miserable afternoon, all the invited guests came to enjoy the hospitality of this charming hostess. This was the last meeting of the club before temporary disbandment.

Everything was simple in manner, yet perfect in detail. At the close of the games, a dainty and delicious lunch was served at the small tables, perfect in their appointments.

Mrs. Bean's guests for the afternoon were Mesdames Strander Goff, Ed. Clark, Wylie Poynter, Lee Evans, William H. Garner, Ed. Mitchell, Gus Brooks, Carrie Beckner, John Worth, of New York; V. W. Bush, W. A. Beatty, Matt Adams, Hampton Bush and Steve Davis.

Literary and Social Club.

The Literary and Social Club had another of its interesting meetings with Miss Winnie Garrett on Saturday morning. These young ladies did not allow the fearful storm on Saturday to keep them at home, for all knew that something splendid was awaiting them.

There were most interesting papers on the "Tragedies of Shakespeare" by Misses Margaret Sphar, Emma Lee Taylor and Richie Lane. There was a guessing contest on the "Wedding of Shakespears" and these questions were answered with the names of Shakespeare's works. The prize, a book of Shakespeare, was won by Miss Emma Lee Taylor. A most delightful and delicious lunch of substantials and hot coffee was served.

Those present for the afternoon were Mrs. William P. French, Misses Anna Mae Hisle, Margaret Sphar, Florry Smith, Sara Goodloe Benton, Richie Lane, Illa and Lucy Stewart, Katherine Nelson, Anne Dudley, Margaret McKinley, Alice and Owen Porter, Clay Croxton, Emma Lee Taylor.

Stimson Tells Jerome to Go Ahead.

DISCUSSES LIBEL SUITS

Says Government Reserves Right to Defend In Court the Reputation of "a Gentleman Who Occupied the Position of Head of the War Department"—Federal Attorney Seeks Order to Compel Shaw to Talk Before Grand Jury.

New York, Feb. 1.—Henry L. Stimson, United States district attorney for the southern district of New York, made public a letter in reply to one written by District Attorney Jerome on the subject of beginning an action for criminal libel in the state courts against the publishers of the New York World because of published charges regarding the Panama canal purchase. Mr. Stimson tells Mr. Jerome to go ahead, and assures him that such action on your part will in no wise be regarded as an interference, but, on the contrary, we shall regard it as our duty to co-operate with you in all proper and lawful ways."

Mr. Jerome had asked if action in the state courts on behalf of Douglas Robinson, the president's brother-in-law, who is a resident of the city and who was mentioned in the article, would be an unwise interference with the actions begun under federal jurisdiction.

Mr. Stimson answers this question negatively, but he does not state that the federal inquiries or prosecutions will cease in the event Mr. Jerome begins an action.

It is apparent from the wording of the letter that while the federal authorities concede to Mr. Jerome the right to appear as the protector of Douglas Robinson's good name, they reserve to themselves the privilege of acting in defense of the reputation of "a gentleman who occupied the position of head of the war department," in any federal jurisdiction where the case applies.

TO MAKE SHAW TALK

Government Official Today Asks Justice Gould For Order.

Washington, Feb. 1.—An important step in the Panama canal libel proceedings before the grand jury of the District of Columbia was taken today when District Attorney Baker asked Justice Ashley M. Gould, presiding in criminal court No. 1, to compel J. Angus Shaw, secretary-treasurer of the Press Publishing company, publishers of the New York World, to answer certain questions pertinent to the inquiry. Mr. Shaw declined to answer any questions except a few of a formal character, on the ground that it was his constitutional prerogative not to respond upon matters which might incriminate himself.

HAVE PERILOUS TRIP

Car Ferry Battered by Elements While Entering Milwaukee Harbor.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 1.—Car ferry No. 15 of the Pere Marquette line, which arrived at a late hour, had one of the worst trips ever experienced by Captain McIsaac in his long service on the lakes. It took 55 hours to cross the lake during the storm, which usually takes 12 hours to make the trip. The crew of 45 men were completely worn out by hard work. Much of the time was spent in beating up and down in a course of about 25 miles outside of Milwaukee harbor.

During the height of the storm the car ferry came near Milwaukee bay, but the mountainous waves and the heavy snow made it impossible to pitch the harbor lights, and the great vessel was compelled to head north with its nose into the wind to avoid the trough of the waves.

ZUEBLIN TALKS TONIGHT

Suffragists Will Attend Lecture In Historic Cooper Union.

New York, Feb. 1.—In historic Cooper Union, where Lincoln delivered his famous address just before the beginning of the civil war, the active woman suffragists of the country will meet tonight to hear Professor Charles Zueblin, the well known sociologist, deliver a lecture on woman suffrage.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the People's Institute and the Equality League for Self-Supporting Women. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Suffrage alliance; Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, head of the Equal Suffrage league; Miss Mary Coleman and many other suffragists will attend.

Louisville Is Frostbitten.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 1.—Frosted windows and turned up coat collars are the manifestations of the outer and inner man in the southern country. Icy winds blew across the cities of the so-called sunny lands, and Louisville had a maximum of 19 and a minimum of 3 degrees above zero. Memphis and Nashville hovered about the 20 mark, and other cities fell in line with a varying scale.

TAYLOR WILL CASE SETTLED BY COMPROMISE

Mrs. McClintock, of Lexington, a Daughter to Receive $65,000.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 1.—The settlement of the Dr. C. M. Taylor, will contest case out of court by compromise was a victory for Mrs. Maude McClintock, of Lexington, Ky., a daughter of the testator, who sued to break the will. The attorneys representing the defense in the case proposed the compromise, which was accepted by the counsel for Mrs. McClintock.

By the decision Mrs. McClintock will receive about $65,000 as her share in the estate of her father.

The compromise was agreed to Saturday evening and one hour later the suit was dismissed and the will probated. By the terms of the agreement Mrs. McClintock will receive one-sixth of the estate after all the expenses of the first trial are paid.

Mrs. McClintock was the daughter of Dr. C. M. Taylor, who died in 1905. All his property was willed to his second wife, Mrs. Julia P. Taylor, and her two children, with the exception of $5,000, which was given to Mrs. McClintock, a daughter by his first marriage. The estate was valued at $500,000.

BED WAS BURNING.

Hotel Clerk in Lexington is Nearly Suffocated by Fire.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 1.—When Coley Hayden, night clerk at the Palace Hotel, went to bed yesterday morning he took with him an electric light to keep his feet warm.

While he was slumbering soundly the bulb exploded, setting fire to the bed and filling the room and corridor with smoke.

Hayden slept on, and was all but suffocated when landlord Wallace burst open the door and dragged him from the burning bed, which was cast out of the window into the street.

"Sure you mustn't mind Sagebrush there," apologized Parenthesis. "He's allus makin' breaks. Let me tote your war bag. Walk this way."

"Good day, gentlemen," smiled Mr. Price. "When you are up my way I trust you will honor my church with your presence"—adding after a pause—"without waiting to lose an election bet."

The entrance of a greaser to refill glasses diverted the attention of the guests until the most important function for them was performed. With "Hows?" and "Here's to the bride!" they drank the toast. Slim, as major domo of the feast, felt it incumbent upon himself to keep the others in order. Turning angrily upon Sagebrush, he said, "Why did you tell the sky pilot where the liquor was?"

"I was just tryin' to do the right thing," answered Sagebrush defiantly. "Embarrassin' us all like that. You ought to know that Parsons don't hit up the gasoline—in public," scolded Slim.

Sagebrush muttered sulkily, "I never herd with Parsons none."

Parenthesis diplomatically avoided any further controversy by calling: "They're gettin' ready. Jim's got Jack in the back room tryin' to cheer him up. Boys, is everything ready for the getaway?"

"Sagebrush, did you get that rice?" demanded Slim.

"That's so—I forgot. I couldn't get no rice, though. Dawson didn't have none."

Without telling what he did get, Sagebrush ran from the room to the corral.

"I told you not to let him have anything to do with it," said Fresno, glaring at his fellow workers. Each was silent, as the accusation was general, and none had been taken into the confidence of Sagebrush and Fresno when arrangements were being made for the feast. Fresno had to blame some one, however. By this time Sagebrush had returned, carrying a bag.

"What did you get?" asked Slim.

"Corn," replied Sagebrush laconically.

"Ain't he the darndest!" Show Low expressed the disgust which the others showed.

"Why, darn it," shouted Slim, shaking his fist at the unfortunate Sagebrush, "you can't let the bride an' groom, hop the home ranch without chuckin' rice at 'em. It's bad medicine."

"Ain't he disgustin'!" interrupted Fresno.

"What does rice mean, anyhow?" asked the bewildered Sagebrush.

"It means somethin' about wishin' em good luck, health, wealth an' prosperity an' all that sort of thing. It's a sign an' symbol of joy," rattled off Slim.

"Well, now, ain't there more joy in corn than in rice?" triumphantly asked Sagebrush.

Slim jerked open the top of the bag while Sagebrush stood by helplessly. "Well, the darned idiot!" he muttered as he peered into it. "If he ain't gone an' got it on the ear!" he continued as he pulled a big ear out.

"All the better," chuckled Sagebrush. "We'll chuck 'em joy in bunches."

"Don't you know that if you hit the bride with a club like this you'll put her plumb out?" cried Slim.

Sagebrush was not cast down, however. Always resourceful, he suggested, "We'll shell some for the bride, but we'll hand Jack his in bunches."

The idea appealing to the punchers, each grabbed an ear of corn. Some brandished the ears like clubs; others aimed them like revolvers.

"I'll keep this one," said Slim, picking out an unusually large ear. "It's a 44. I'll get one of the greasers to shell some for the bride."

The bride was arrayed in her wedding gown. Mrs. Allen was ready for a fresh burst of weeping. The girls had assembled in the large room in which the ceremony was to be performed. Polly acted as herald for the cowboys. Appearing in the doorway, she commanded, "Say, you folks come on an' get seated!"

Slim stood beside Polly as the boys marched past him. His general admission was, "The first one of you Shorthorns that makes a break I'm goin' to bend a gun over your head!"

The guests grinned cheerfully as they marched past the couple.

"There's a heap of wickedness in that bunch," remarked Slim piously.

"If he ain't gone an' got it on the ear!" to the girl. Tossing a flower to him as she darted away, she cried, "You ain't near too good yourself, Slim!"

"Ain't she a likely filly?" mused the lovesick sheriff. "If there's anybody that could make me good it's her. I'm all in. If ever I get the nerve all at once, darn me if I don't ask her right out!"

But Slim's courage oozed as quickly as it had risen, and, with a sigh, he followed his companions to the wedding.

CHAPTER IX.

DICK LANE on leaving the hospital at Chihuahua went straight to the fortified ledge where he had made his heroic defense. As he conjectured, the renegade McKee had got there first and found and made off with the buried treasure. So Dick manfully set to work to replace his lost fortune. It seemed too slow work to go to his mine and dig the gold he immediately required out of the ground, so he struck out for civilization to sell some of his smaller claims. In the course of a month, at the end of which his wanderings brought him to Tucson, he had sold enough of his holdings to give him $3,000 in ready cash. As he was near the Sweetwater, he resolved not to express the money to Payson, but to take it himself.

He entered the courtyard of Allen Hacienda while the wedding was taking place within. None of his friends would have recognized him. His frame was emaciated from sickness; his head was drawn back by the torture which he had suffered; he limped upon feet that had been distorted by the firebrands in McKee's hands, and his face was overgrown by an unkempt beard.

Sounds of laughter fell upon his ears as he mounted the steps. He heard Fresno shout to Slim to hurry up, as he was telling the story about a fellow that was so tanked up he could not say "sasaparella."

Dick halted. "There must be some sort of a party going on here," he thought to himself. "It won't do to take Echo too much by surprise. If Jack got my letter and told her, it's all right, but if it miscarried the shock might kill her. I'll see Jack first."

Dick had ridden first to Sweetwater ranch, but found the place deserted. The party, he mused, accounted for this. While he was planning a way to attract the attention of some one in the house and to get Payson to the garden without letting Echo know of his presence Sagebrush Charley, who had espied the stranger through the window, sauntered out on the porch to investigate. Every visitor to the territory needed looking over, especially after the trouble with Buck McKee.

Sagebrush was bound that there should be no hitch at the wedding of his boss.

"Howdy?" greeted Lane pleasantly. "I'm looking for Jack Payson."

"That's so?" answered Sagebrush. "Who may you be?"

"I'm a friend of his."

The foreman could see no danger to come from this weak, sickly man.

"I'm a friend of his."

The foreman could see no danger to come from this weak, sickly man.

His train of thought was interrupted by the entrance of Jack on the porch from the house.

"My name's Payson," Jack began hurriedly, casting a hasty glance backward into the hallway, for the ceremony was about to begin. "You want to see me?"

"Jack," cried Dick, holding out his hand eagerly—"Jack, old man, don't you know me?" he continued falteringly, seeing no sign of recognition in his friend's eyes.

Payson gasped, shocked and startled. The man before him was a stranger in looks, but the voice—the voice was that of Dick Lane, the last man in the world he wanted to see that moment. Frightened, almost betraying himself, he glanced at the half open door. If Dick entered he knew Echo would be lost to him. She might love him truly and her love for Dick might have passed away, but he knew that Echo would never forgive him for the deception that he had practiced upon her.

Grasping his friend's hand weakly he faltered, "Dick—Dick Lane!"

Dick realized he must act quickly. Some way or somehow Dick must be kept out of the house until after the marriage. Then he Jack must take the consequences. Dick saw his best chance. It was not what he had expected. But something dreadful might have happened while he was away. There had been so many changes.

"Why, what's the matter?" he asked anxiously. "You got my letter? You knew I was coming?"

"Yes, yes, I know," lame answered Jack. "But I expected notice. You know you said—"

"I couldn't wait. Jack, I'm a rich man, thanks to you!"

"Yes, yes; that's all right," said Payson, disclaiming the praise of the man he had so grievously wronged with a hurried acknowledgment of his gratitude.

"And I hurried back for fear Echo—" "Oh, yes. I'll tell her about it when she's ready to hear it."

"What is the matter, Jack? Are you keeping something from me? Where is she?"

"In there," said Payson feebly, pointing to the door.

Dick eagerly started toward the house, but Jack halted him, saying: "No, you mustn't go in now. There's a party—you see, she hasn't been well; doesn't expect you tonight. The shock might be too much for her."

Jack grasped at the lame excuse. It was the first to come to his mind. He must think quickly. This experience was tearing the heart out of him. He could not save himself from betrayal much longer.

"You're right," acquiesced Dick. "You tell her when you get a chance. Jack, as I was saying, I've made quite a bit of money out of my Bisbee holdings. I can pay back my stake to you now."

"Not now," said Jack nervously.

Would this torture never end? Here was his friend, whom he had betrayed, come back in the very hour of his marriage to the woman who had promised first to marry him. Now he was offering him money, which Jack needed badly, for his prospective mother-in-law was complaining about his taking his daughter to a mortgaged home.

"Sure, now," continued Dick, pulling a roll of bills from his pocket. "It's $3,000. Here it is, all in one bundle."

"Not now. That wait," said Jack, pushing the money aside.

"It's waited long enough," cried Dick doggedly. "You put the mortgage on your ranch to let me have the money, and it must be about due now."

"Yes, it will be due, but let it wait."

"What's the use? I'm all right now. I brought the cash with me on purpose. I wanted to square it with you on sight."

Dick pressed the money into Jack's hand, closing his fingers over the roll of bills. With a sigh of relief, as if a disagreeable task was completed, he questioned, "How's Bud?"

Jack replied shortly, "All right; he's inside."

"I didn't write to him," cheerfully resumed Dick. "I didn't want the kid to know. He is so excitable he would have blabbed it right out. I'll sure be glad to see the boy again. He's impulsive, but his heart's all right. I know you've kept a lookout over him."

This trust in him was getting too much for Jack to bear, so the voice of Polly crying to him to hurry up was music to his ears. "I'm coming," he shouted. "I'll see you in a few minutes," he told Dick. "I've something to tell you. I can't tell you now."

"Go in, then," answered Dick. "I'll wait yonder in the garden. Don't keep me waiting any longer than you can help."

"Tell him an old friend from Mexico."

Sagebrush did not like the actions of the stranger and his secrecy. He was there to fight his boss' battles, if he had any. This was not in the contract, but it was a part read into the paper by Sagebrush.

"Say, my name's Sagebrush Charley," he cried, with a show of importance.

"Van Albert—I don't think so. Why?"

"Rodrick—Just look at the illumination in his house. He has had every gas jet burning all day long."

"Van Albert—Oh, that's just a little scheme Billkins has to increase his gas bill this month. His wife is coming back to-morrow, and he told her he had been remaining at home and reading every night since she went away. If she looked at the gas bill and found it to be only 32 cents, he would be cornered for an explanation.—Chicago News."

You Cannot Answer These Questions!

1—Why do you continue bathing your knees and elbows one at a time, when you can stretch out in a full bath tempered to suit you, and can do so every morning if you wish?

2—Why pump and carry water for your kitchen and laundry work when you can have it at hand for the turning of a faucet?

3—Why take chances on drinking germ-filled eister water when you can get it from a large reservoir filtered through the best filter plant South of the Ohio River?

4—Why have a dry, dismal-looking yard when you can have it filled with green grass and blooming flowers, and can do at the same time get rid of the dust in the street?

5—Why suffer other inconveniences when you can have everything for the comfort and health of your family right in the house?

6—Is it not true that the answer is not "lack of money," but lack of economy and enterprise and indifference to getting the most out of life?

OLD TIME NEEDLEWORK.

Mathematical Precision Required In the Laying Out of the Pattern.
Many of the readers of today will remember the childish pride in a little frock adorned in the manner shown in the cut, which perhaps the dainty fingers of a doting grandmother worked for an adored grandchild. Indeed, the work is not new. It is as old as the hills, but is much more attractive than some of the new work.

Perhaps you know and perhaps you don't that this fancy tucking is started upon the basis of plain, evenly run tucks. Any petticoat or apron that is plainly tucked may with a little slipping with the scissors and a few stitches be converted into quite an elaborate article.

Absolute mathematical exactness must be exercised in the laying out of the pattern for this old time work. This, of course, you readily see at a glance, for if the points were not in correct position in regard to one another the whole effect would be spoilt. A tape measure or a ruler and a pencil and a bit of ingenuity are all required to lay out the simple trimming. Wherever the tuck is to be turned back to form the point the material is not cut in a V, as one might imagine, but the tuck is merely slit perpendicularly, and then there are two ways of finishing. One is to turn the cut edges of the tuck back and tuck them into place. This, you will realize, leaves uncovered the raw seams, which, of course, are on the under side and are not likely to be noticed. The more perfect way, however, to accomplish this is to turn each side of the tuck in and overhand the bias edges. This obviates all fraying of raw seams and makes the work washable and good wearing.

One difficulty of the old time work was that the points did not always lay flat. The new note in the work illustrated today is the embroidering of polka dots upon the points, which serves not only as an adornment, but for the very practical purpose of holding them in place.

To Make For Christmas.

A contributor to one of the home magazines claims that she has found an acceptable gift for a man. If there is anything in the idea it is worth passing along, for suitable birthday and Christmas gifts for men are so scarce that one can't afford to disregard a single possibility. This woman has solved the problem of Christmas gifts for men by making the several masculine members of her family shaving towels of soft linen. Don't let any one confuse this with the combing towel which a woman uses, for the object of the towel is not to drape around the shoulders while shaving, but rather to use for the purpose for which a towel was originally designed after the shaving process has been completed. The towel is made of figured birdseye linen of a very fine quality. This can be purchased at the linen department of any large store. The towel is made a yard long with a half inch hem hemstitched in each end and a monogram embroidered in one corner an inch and a half above the hem. The softness of a towel of this kind seems to make it especially desirable for use after shaving.

Filet Lace Curtains.

Every woman has been proud to own one or more sofa and bed cushions made from fine handkerchief linen and squares of filet lace. Nothing gives more distinction to a bedroom couch or the bed itself than the addition of one of these cushions.

These are now imitated in covers for pincushions. If you are looking for a dainty present for another girl you cannot go far wrong in choosing one.

It is about six inches long and three inches wide and is made of the finest materials. The squares of filet lace have the classic designs on them. The edges of the linen are finely hemstitched. Tiny round pearl buttons are used, which do not button through the material, but fasten into tiny silk loops. They are slipped over colored silk linings.

A Delicious Icing.

Put on a cupful of granulated sugar with a half cupful of water. Let it boil without stirring until it spins a heavy thread.

Beat very stiff the white of one egg and info it pour slowly the hot sugar. Let the syrup cool a little before putting it in the egg, or it will cook it. Beat steadily until the icing is smooth and creamy.

Just before it is too cold to stir longer add one ounce each of candied cherries, chopped citron, candied pine-apple and blanched almonds.

Crotton Book Cover.

The new crotton or crottones make wonderfully good looking book covers. It is quite easy to accomplish one of these at home. Instead of the common place flowered fabrics the striped and small pattern chinizes are chosen and bound with gold galloon.

THINGS FOR THE HOUSE

Old Fashioned Dinner Bell Revived—A Dish Rack.

USEFUL WHEN SERVING CHOPS

A New Gridiron Promises to Revolutionize the Art of Broiling Steaks.
It Is Easy to Clean and Can Be Taken Apart if Desired.

That all softening,
Overpowering knell,
The tocsin of the soul—
The dinner bell.

Of mission oak and brass is the dinner bell seen in the illustration. Fashioned like the old "town bells" used in the villages during colonial days and by English and French peasants to call town meetings, it is odd and attractive.

The tone of the brass bell is deep and rich. The slightest pull on the leather thong suspended from it will make it ring long enough to call any ordinary hungry mortal to dinner.

In a mission furnished hall this would add a quaint and artistic touch.

Another new household invention is the chop rack. How often has the polish on a dining table been ruined by an unsightly mark made by the contact of a hot dish!

Some servants are so careless they never seem to learn that hot dishes will mark a table unless a thick mat is placed under them. Now the shops show a chop rack made especially for a chop dish, but which can be used for any other purpose desired, which holds the hot dish one inch from the table, thus precluding any possible harm to the table from heat.

The rack is of nickel, which, by the way, is a good substitute for silver. It never becomes tarnished and if rubbed with a hot, damp cloth and dried quickly it shines like new silver. The rack is fashioned so as to make it easy to place the dish or to remove it. The handle at the top is to use when carrying the hot dish to the table.

As chops should always be served piping hot, this is indeed a solution of the question of how to obtain the best results.

A grooved gridiron that is among the new things of the season promises to revolutionize the art of broiling steaks or chops.

The new gridiron is provided with a rest that tilts it in such a way that the grooved iron on which the chop or steak rests inclines toward the back of the stove and terminates in a little trough into which the gravy finds its way as it courses down the grooves. In this manner not a drop of the juice of the meat is lost.

The cleverest part of the device is the way in which the fire is allowed to get at the meat while at the same time being deprived of its drippings of gravy. A series of slits in the sides of the grooved channels, at a height which, while permitting the cooking to proceed, precludes the possibility of the gravy escaping into the fire, make of the new gridiron as perfect a cooking utensil as the old one, but with the advantage of preserving the juice of the meat. The grooved part is removable for purposes of cleaning, and the gridiron can be used apart from it if it is desired.

Blanket Bath Robes.

If you have a friend who is going to be married and you want to make her some dainty personal thing build her a bath robe out of a silk blanket.

The blankets are sold in the shops at reasonable prices. They are widely striped in pink and blue, violet and buff, blue and white.

One of these can be easily arranged for a loose kimono robe. Large armholes are cut, and square sleeves are arranged in with the back and fronts. The stripes must go across in order to give a good hang to the blanket. The edges are bound with four inches of pongee or china silk to match the color of one of the stripes.

FOR COLLEGE MEN.

Pretty Things In Room Decorations to Please Masculine Minds.

Christmas presents for the youth at college can always include a number of made things, for he is almost invariably as anxious to have his room fixed up as any girl can be. Then he longs to have all sorts of cases for his athletic traps and his musical instruments if he belongs to any of the glee clubs. So anything that contributes to these ends is sure to please him.

For his study table an attractive blotter is mounted on a linen covered cardboard. The linen can be found with the design stamped and dyed, ready to outline. Spotted illes beneath, with leaves and stems curving upward to the top of the mount, make an odd but good design. The flower is adaptable by nature to any combination of red, blue or yellow college colors.

A scrap box will be handy for the table, too, or it can be used to drop notes of lectures in for safe keeping. A pasteboard box about five inches square makes a good foundation. Discard the cover and cut down the box an inch, except in the middle of the two sides, where inch and a half wide uprights are left. Cover the box, inside and out, with heavy paper and bind the edges with passe-partout or cover with silk and finish with a guippe. If paper is used, the college pennants may be painted on the panels of the box or embroidered there if cloth has been put on.

A circular piece of leather carved in a block and fine border and with the circular central space filled with jewels in college colors sewed on in a setting of carved circles and diamonds makes the handsome cover for a small penwiper.

Pipe racks can be made useful in almost any college man's room. An elongated pasteboard curved and rounded off into irregularity of outline can be covered with burlap in artistic shades. Three ribbon loops are arranged on it to hold three pipes. In the middle of the rack, at the top, embroider the emblem of the favorite secret society and on the lower part of the rack make a graceful arrangement of holly leaves.

Sofa pillows, always acceptable, are best done in a material heavy enough to stand rather rough handling and must have the college colors or be done in pennants, seals or insignia that pertain to the college. Art cretonnes come in artistic colors and are a soft yet strong fabric.

Another good present is a scrap basket. Handsome ones can be made of large muff boxes covered with denim on which has been appliqued a shield of plain color. This must first be monogrammed with the college initial in the proper colors. Of course the denim will fit in its ground or fit over one of the college colors.

Pongee coats for lounging are the most comfortable of garments. The recipient's monogram in college colors and small lettering makes one of these desirable to senior or sophomore.

If one can use a crocheted or knitting needle handily, then a college sweater can be evolved, one of the most useful gifts of the year.

Covers for rackets, bats, banjos and every other kind of case are usable to the college man, especially if his seal, flag or other insignia appears on them in embroidery.

Couch covers make sizable gifts and usually mean considerable hand work. Nothing can be handsomer, though, than one of the art cottons cross stitched with the seal in the center and with a broad fancy border.

Sydney Smith's Salad Dressing.

That witty divine, Sydney Smith, wrote the following directions for a salad dressing, which those who have tried praise highly:

Two boiled potatoes strained through a kitchen sieve
Softness and smoothness to the salad give.
Of mordant mustard take a single spoon;
Distrust the condiment that bites too soon.

Yet deem it not, thou man of taste, a fault
To add a double quantity of salt.

Four times the spoon with oil of Lucca crown
And twice with vinegar procured from town.

True taste requires it, and your poet begs
The pounded yellow of two hard boiled eggs.

Let onion's atoms lurk within the bowl
And, scarce suspected, animate the whole,

And lastly in the favored compound toss

A magic spoonful of anchovy sauce.

Oh, great and glorious! Oh, herbaceous meat!

Twould tempt the dying anachorite to eat.

Back to the world he'd turn his weary soul

And plunge his fingers in the salad bowl.

Fudge Cake With Whipped Cream.

Beat half a cup of butter to a cream. Gradually beat in one cup of sugar, the beaten yolks of two eggs, three ounces or squares of chocolate melted over hot water, half a cup of molasses, half a cup of sour milk, half a cup of hot water and then two cups and one-half of sifted pastry flour sifted again with one teaspoonful of soda. Bake in

FUDGE CAKE WITH WHIPPED CREAM.

A hot, well buttered muffin pan and serve hot, with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla or powdered cinnamon. The recipe makes about eighteen cakes. Part of it may be baked in a layer and the layer be cut into halves and put together with a little white icing.

SNAPSHOTS OF THE MODE.

A New Material Highly Approved of Dame Fashion.

Satin faced cashmere is a new material highly approved by Dame Fashion this season.

Nothing in the list of modish things has presented such an economical method of achieving a smart and rich result as the colored net embroideries and "darning" upon lace or net. After the simple net blouse is made up—or has been purchased ready-made—take a needful of heavy silk floss in any desired shade and begin to work big coin dots on the net. There must be a definite motif or pattern, however, or the effect will not be good.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Knickerbockers Worn by Ultra Fashionables—The Newest Girdle.

Women who affect ultra fashions are wearing only knickerbockers under their slimmost gowns. When petticoats are worn they are the merest slacks of light satin, run through with ribbon and drawn so tightly that free steps are impossible.

The newest girdle is in waistcoat shape, with turnback revers, and is topped by a lace jabot, which falls from the throat to the top of the. The girdles are made of satin or silk, usually plaited. Sometimes they are in the colors of the gown, with black satin revers, and sometimes they are of black satin or black taffeta.

A most Napoleonic stock consists of folds of colored satin coming up

A SPRING SHIRT WAIST—4047.

A pattern of this plain shirt waist is cut in seven sizes—from 32 to 44 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number (4047), and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail.

very high on the back and above this a very fine plaiting of white net. Big satin covered buttons each side of the front give the true historic air, and the whole is completed by a satin tie with cord pendants.

The ready made buttonholes and loops—cloth, satin or braid—are a convenience in these days of button decoration.

The smartest handkerchiefs for women have centers of solid colors to match the dress or suit accessories and a pure white border. These come in linen and silk and are very swag-

ger. The shirt waist pictured is an advanced model that will be found very useful when the spring and summer waists are being made.

The Richmond broom ball team and the local five will line up at the Auditorium Monday night and a hotly contested game is expected. The game is being played to play off a tie that is existing between the two teams.

OPERA HOUSE

"Under the Greenwood Tree."

"Under the Greenwood Tree," a new comedy which has been received with profuse praise by the critics in New York and London, will be the offering of Florence Davis and her well-chosen players including Elliott Dexter at the opera house, Friday evening, February 5. This attraction is under the direction of the Garrick management, who are giving Miss Davis what is reputed as the most worthy cast she has ever had, and the play is mounted with the entire lavish production of picturesque scenery, costumes and effects with which "Under the Greenwood Tree" was seen last season at the Garrick Theatre, New York.

"The Wolf."

"The Wolf," by Eugene Walter, and under the direction of Messrs. Sam S. and Lee Shubert, will be the offering at the Winchester Theatre next Monday, February 8.

The piece has played a successful half-year engagement in New York and has just closed one of four months in Chicago, making it possible for the Shuberts to tour the piece for a short time previous to its return to those cities. "The Wolf" has to do with the Canadian Hudson Bay territory, the hero is a French Canadian, who undertakes a vendetta against a man who ruined and caused the death of his half-sister. He finds him in the person of a Scotch trader, who is scheming to get hold of Hilda, the very girl upon whom he has set his own heart. The trader has the young woman's father on his side, but the hero succeeds in carrying her off in a fight, and in the closing acts kills his rival in a sensational duel. The cast is said to be one of dramatic excellence. The same big production used at the New York Lyric Theatre will be used. Seat sale Friday at Martin and Cook's Drug Store.

LECTURES AT COLLEGE.

Rev. Thomas Hamby will lecture at the chapel of Kentucky Wesleyan College Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The subjects will be "700 Miles by Snow Shoe and Dog Train" and "The Beast that Carries the Prophet."

ANOTHER "SHUBERT" SHOW.

"Ned" Kendall, representative of Sam and Lee Shubert, who will present "The Wolf" at the Winchester Theatre, Monday, February 8, blew into town at 8:42 a.m. today and by 3:13 o'clock, everybody in the directory and all telephone subscribers were being made aware of the marvelous merits of the same and by the way Mr. Kendall is ahead of a real good show, which is by the same author, Eugene Walter, who wrote "Paid in Full."

Mr. Kendall has a breezy cordiality of manner, which stamps him at once as a Southerner and incidentally is a Baltimorean. The Wolf plays in Lexington Friday and Saturday and Mr. Kendall earnestly requests all residents and readers of The News to be sure and phone their friends at Lexington, how they liked The Wolf and tells assured their replies will pack the house here next Monday night.

THE SECRET OF LONG LIFE.

A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. It is a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W. M. Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c. at Phillips Drug Company.

PAPERS NOT GRADED YET.

The result of the examination of County School graduates held in County School Superintendent Tanner's office Friday and Saturday of last week is not known yet, as all the papers have not been graded.

MR. H. V. SCRIVENER FOR CITY COLLECTOR

Rising Young Business Man of City and Member of School Board.

Mr. Harry V. Scrivener announces in the columns of the News today for City Collector. Mr. Scrivener is now an efficient member of the City School board. He has been a resident of Winchester for twelve years and engaged in the dry goods business during that time. He is one of the rising young business men of the city and would, if chosen, undoubtedly handle the city's money as he does his own.

LAW DEPENDS UPON DEMOCRATIC ACTION

Caucus Tonight Decides Fate of Indiana Option Measure.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—Unless the Democrats of the state legislature get together in their caucus tonight there seems little chance to repeal the county local option law, enacted by the special session of the legislature last September. A caucus of Democratic representatives on last Thursday ended when several members who opposed the repeal left the room during a heated argument. A second caucus called for Friday night failed for lack of a quorum.

The operation of the county option has been watched with interest by the legislature. Thirty-two of the 22 counties of the state are without saloons, nine of them having so voted since the county option law went into effect. The other 23 were made dry by remonstrances. Four counties will hold elections under the county option law this week and a fifth on Feb. 9.

SWAP HOLDS TONIGHT

Chicago Enthusiasts Interested In De Rouen-Marchmont Bout.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Raoul de Rouen of France and Yussif Mahmout of Turkey, two of the world's best men at the grappling game, will meet on the mat here tonight in a catch-as-catch-can bout.

Local sports are greatly interested in seeing Mahmout perform, as he has championship aspirations and is said to be anxious to meet Frank Gotch, the world's champion. He has pinned down Jenkins, Pardello and other good men. De Rouen also has a good record, although his recent defeat by Westergaard at Omaha has cost him some of his fame.

ESTILL SPRINGS IS THE MEETING PLACE

Kentucky Educational Association Will Assemble Next June.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 1.—Prof. J. G. Crabbe, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, calls attention to the next meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association as follows:

The thirty-eighth annual session of the Kentucky Educational Association will be held at Estill Springs, Irvine, Ky., on June 22, 23 and 24, 1909. There is probably no place in Kentucky so well equipped and so admirably adapted to the entertainment of the association as Estill Springs. The large old-fashioned, home-like hotel can easily and comfortably accommodate 400 people. The surroundings are beautiful and the meeting this year should be the greatest and best in the history of the association.

The advantages offered this year for the entertainment of the members have never before been equaled. The inducements offered by the citizens of Irvine to secure this meeting of the association will be a net saving to the members of hundreds of dollars. Very little, if any, reduction in hotel rates and but few special advantages have been offered by any city where former sessions of the association have been held. The following advantages are assured for this meeting:

A straight rate of $1.50 per day for 400 guests at Estill Springs Hotel.

A straight rate of $1.25 per day for 200 guests at the other three hotels in the city.

A rate of $1 a day for 250 guests in the private homes of the city.

The free use of the large orchestra which is kept by the Estill Springs Hotel during the summer season.

The exclusive use of the big hotel for guests of the association.

The exclusive use of the big hotel for guests of the association.

The free use of the large auditorium ballroom under the roof of the big hotel for the place of the meeting.

The free use of the tennis courts, bowling places, croquet yards, fine water, pure mountain air, beautiful lawns and gardens for the whole month if you want to stay so long.

Special trains on the L & A. railroad, connecting with the Southern railway at Versailles, the Q. & C. at Nicholaville and the L. & N. at Danville.

LANGLEY TO INTRODUCE ANTI-SALOON MEASURE

Seeks to Prohibit Shipment of Liquor Into Local Option Territory.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Representative Langley, of Kentucky, will introduce on Monday the interstate liquor shipment bill prepared by the anti-saloon league of America to obviate the objection of the unconstitutional urged against the Littlefield bill.

The objection to the Littlefield bill was that it made interstate shipments of liquor subject to the State laws immediately upon crossing the border which was claimed by its opponents to be an attempted delegation of Congressional power and therefore unconstitutional.

The new measure provides for the direct exercise of Congressional power by itself prohibiting the shipment or transportation of liquor to any State or Territory or District of the United States, or part of the same, where such a shipment could not legally be made within the same. It is designed to protect both prohibition States and dry territory within local option States.

MOVING PICTURE SALE.

The chairs, piano machine, and other fixtures of the old moving picture theatre on East Broadway were sold at auction Monday morning to satisfy a debt. The 100 chairs were purchased by Mr. D. T. Matlack for $42. The picture machine was also purchased by Mr. Matlack for $34. The piano was purchased by the Krell Piano Company for $125. Quite a large crowd attended the sale.
